Customer Liability for Direct Freight Shipments

Customer's requesting direct shipment accepts liability for proper receiving. In the event that damages are not noted, Edward Don & Co. will not be held liable.

- Inspect inner packaging of the equipment prior to signing the carrier's P.O.D. Note visible damage in detail. Include make, model, & qty. You have the right to open & inspect the contents before signing carrier's B.O.L. Apparent extreme damages should always be refused. If freight is refused, Edward Don & Co. should be notified immediately to ensure that a replacement is shipped in a timely fashion. Freight must be opened within 10 days; the cut off point for filing claims for concealed damage is 15 days. After this there is no course of action. Packaging must be available for inspection by carrier, and must not be moved from destination location. Customer will be responsible for the following risks/actions. Items lost or damaged at the jobsite. Additional freight costs of deliveries rejected or no one available to sign for delivery. Damage and/or replacement value if delivery receipt is signed w/out any notation. Coordination of moving and storing of equipment once unloaded from truck.
