I purchased this property about 10 years ago. This property has always been a renter & was registered by the previous owner. This was inspected by city inspection at the time of my purchase. Both units have long term renters & the single mother with one child has been there since I purchased the property. This is a hardship for the tenant if she is forced to move.

This is also a hardship for me as what am I going to do with 2 units if 1 unit is owner occupied and the other one is ~~used~~ vacant. I have had this inspected & registered

Thank you
