It was discovered that Wis. Stats., sec. 236.11 states the governing body must approve, approve conditionally or reject the preliminary plat within 90 days. The reason for the 60 day referral was to allow time for other jurisdictions to approve. Planning staff advised that the Town and County will have reviewed this plat before the May J&A meeting.

The Council referred this item for 60 days to June, but that is beyond the 90 days. Planning staff asked how we can have it considered in May instead of June. Ordinarily we wouldn't do this, but under the circumstances deem it appropriate that the item be considered earlier. Will you order this item to the J&A Committee for the May cycle?
