David,

The address in question is 2385 Sablewood Road. My husband and I presently own this land but the new owners will close on it March 4th. We initially purchased the land to build a house, but decided to buy directly instead so we sold the land. When we purchased this property, we were never told that we needed to shovel the sidewalk. We did not live there and were completely unaware of this. When we received a fine for $390, we immediately hired a company to shovel the sidewalk. We then received another huge fine in the mail. We paid the first fine in full but do not feel we need to pay anything more than that since we IMMEDIATELY hired someone the same day that the first fine arrived. When it was brought to our attention, we took care of this immediately and therefore, should not be fined a second time. Please advise how we can dispute the second fine. Thank you.

Per our telephone conversation, we wish to dispute a fine that was charged to us. We were told that we can do so during the Monday evening meeting. Please instruct us how to proceed. Thank you, Robert and Bev Weisbrod
